

The Conning Tower

Shakespeare Again.

Dust unto dust—
Who can say where or how
His wanton dust enjoyed its way
Or went down weary to the clay?
Yet see it now,
A golden-fruited bough
Verdantly thrust
Up through the dust
This April day!

WITTER BYNNER.

The Guiltiest Feeling, according to T. N. P., comes when the British boarding officer at Falmouth asks the returning American, "Have you written anything for the German papers?" when said American knows only one German word and can't remember that.

A TRI-LINGUAL ADEPT.

(From the World.)
JANITOR.—Respectable Hungarian family want position; speak German, English; understand French; no basement. Y 434 World, Harlem.

Mr. Clarence A. Mayo, Editor of The American Druggist, says that he will be glad to have you "send the names of any person whom you think should receive an invitation." We suggest the names of Dr. Abraham Flexner.

SIGNS AND SICHLIKE.

In Brooklyn: "If you buy one of our suits, you will soon return to cover it with one of our overcoats." In Long Island City: "Villa Plots for Sale." At the Triangle Theatre, Brooklyn: "Civilization's Child and De Wolf Hopper."

Mr. Frank O'Neill, our blithesome coworker, refers to Ivan Olson, the Philistine shortstop, as "the agile Swede." And Mr. Heywood Brown, our equally merry office-mate, observes that Paderewski came to the game "to watch his fellow-countryman, Ivan Olson."

THE REBEL.

This is the death conceived for Pancho Villa
By his pursuing foemen and by others—
By Greaser and by Gringo—on some coming morrow,
Flame and thunder, ravishment of sorrow
In some adobe houses, but back where men are brothers,
Acclaim of justice done to Pancho Villa.

This may, however, be the death of that wild rebel,
A quiet death somewhere, wide eyes' eternal closing,
A strong hand's lifting and that hand's recalling,
Long waves of silence on a still breast falling,
A myriad rills of rest, merged in a tide reposing,
A tide of light and silence over Pancho Villa.

For such is often enough the death of rebels,
And for long their comrades doubt if they can die so,
And even we ourselves can scarce believe it,
For, tutored or simple, who can quite conceive it—
That in a moment perishes what abides so
Deeply infixed as was strife in Pancho Villa?

Turbulence and strife are part of Pancho Villa,
Cunning and conceit and other passions vain,
And flaming thunderous protest—and so surely
Many a death must come to gain securely
Quiet at last for virtues that remain.
And make immortal what is good in Pancho Villa.

Many deaths, I say, must come upon him,
And many awakenings to life once more,
And to the consciousness at last of seeing
That turbulence is gone and gone the fleeing
And hateful riot of things known before,
And so—life out of death for Pancho Villa.

But some one thing, some day for Pancho Villa,
When he lies down among the wild hills, will have died
And passed—and oh, if in its going
Such streams of silence and of rest come flowing,
What quiet, oh! my brothers, must abide
When deaths shall all have done with us—and Pancho Villa.

FLAVIA ROSSER.

To bring joy to the hearts of seventeen letter-writers, the news here is set forth that Miss Elizabeth Bahr has just become the wife of Mr. Edward Steele.

Another contrib has been honored. This time it is Adelaide, who has been awarded the Drisler Fellowship for classical philology at Columbia University. The Tower's congratulations, Adelaide.

Gotham Gleanings

 Looks like another rainy spell.

 Work on the new subway has resumed.

 Mrs. F. P. Adams of here has been visiting F. P. Morse of Washington.

 Will Bradley will be glad to know the Merwins are taking good care of his house in Concord, Mass.

 Miss Carolyn Wells of Rahway is Sundaying in town, celebrating the tercentenary of Shakespeare's death. He died 300 yrs. ago.

 That bell in Frankfort Street is rung by some restaurant or other and is driving us almost crazy. If it doesn't stop, we'll tell the police. It is a public nuisance.

 Vic Murdock is going to have a grand piece in the next Sunday Tribune about Theodore Roosevelt. Bill McGeehan has written a piece for our Mag. section too that is a daisy.

BLESS HIM!

Somebody is always dissatisfied. "Why is it," wails Beetle Bug, "that whenever, after igniting my cigarette, I immediately throw the burnt match into the waste-paper basket (containing papers), conflagration does not ensue, as in the movies?"

As to when the movies originated—a thing the m. or l. Literary Digest is attempting to find out—we have no definite information. But the phonograph is at least three hundred years old, lift it from the Attleboro, Mass., Sun. "Speakers from the senior class," says the Sun, telling of the high school celebration, "plays by the freshman class, and Victrola records of famous speeches of Shakespeare will make up the programme."

One wonders, while upon that theme, how Shakespeare would have made a certain speech. Perhaps thus:

Unwonted as I am to public speaking,
My tongue is silent as these very boards
That do support the mummery's eager feet;
And words, the laggard messengers of thought,
Rebel at going to their destination.
And as the plaudits of approving palms
Do louder grow, so do I grow more mute;
My silence varying even as the square
Of what applause hath echoed o'er this house.
Wherefore, in wonder mute and dumb amazed,
I murmur, inarticulate and dumb amazed,
"I thank you."

EASTER WEEK A BUSY ONE FOR SOCIETY.

EASTER WEEK is always one of the busiest and most brilliant of the season, socially speaking, but not in years have so many weddings, charitable entertainments, dances and smaller affairs been arranged as the one which opened to-day. Over thirty marriages of interest to society will be celebrated during the week, and not a day passes without three or four entertainments for some worthy cause being given. Saturday will be the most strenuous day of the week, for there are twelve important weddings scheduled for that day, several entertainments for charity and the first of the outdoor affairs of the spring season—the meeting of the Rockaway Hunting Club at Hewlett Bay Park. Many members of society have entered horses and the fashionable world will be out in force on that day.

William A. Hazard is president of the club; H. Hobart Porter, vice-president; Newbold T. Lawrence, secretary, and Frederic H. Hatch, treasurer. The race committee is made up of John G. Livingston, chairman; Carleton Macy, John Tucker, Franklin B. Voss and John Hoves Burton. The club also will hold races on the following Saturday, May 6. Six races are on the programme for each of the two days, there being three steeplechases, one for hunters over the post and rails course and two on the flat.

One of the most interesting of the many entertainments arranged for charity is the one to be given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, 660 Fifth Avenue, on Tuesday evening for the benefit of the war sufferers at Venice. Tickets are $25 each, and as the expenses are being met by Mrs. Vanderbilt, Mrs. James A. Burden, Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., Mrs. Alexander D. B. Pratt, Mrs. Otto H. Kahn, Mrs. Payne Whitney, Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney and Miss Barbara Rutherford, the entire receipts will be turned over to the charity.

Wladislaw Nijinski, of the Ballet Russe, will pose in one of the tableaux. The first tableau is by Cima, posed by Miss Maud Kahn, W. Forbes Morgan and Master Ashley Chandler; the second is by Carpaccio, done by Mrs. Arthur Scott Burden and Mrs. Henry W. Bull; the third by Giorgione, with Miss Barbara Rutherford and Cyril Hatch; the fourth by Mantegna, with Miss Edith Deacon; the fifth by Bellini, with Miss Dorothy Bigelow; the sixth by Titian, with Miss Wiborg, Mrs. Sydney S. Breese and Miss Kerouach; the seventh by Veronese, with Mrs. Leonard M. Thomas, Mrs. W. Bourke Cockran, Mrs. C. L. Oelrichs, Miss Mercedes De Acosta and Miss Catherine Miller; the eighth by Alfieri, with Mrs. A. D. B. Pratt; the ninth by Tiepolo, with Mrs. Archibald S. Alexander, James W. Barney, Burrill Hoffman and Robert Locher; the tenth by Tiepolo, with Mrs. Howard G. Cushing, Mrs. Courtland D. Barnes, Miss Gabrielle Warren and Francis Roche; the eleventh by Longhi, with Mrs. Newbold LeRoy Edgar, Mrs. Ralph Sanger, Miss Elsie de Wolfe and Mrs. Benjamin Guinness.

The committee in charge of the affair includes Mrs. William A. Delano, Mrs. Philip M. Lydig, Mrs. Walter Maynard, Miss Jane B. Wallach, Rawlins L. Cottenet, Frank Crowninshield, M. Serge de Diaghileff and Baron de Meyer. Others who are actively interested are Mrs. Archibald S. Alexander, Mrs. Sydney S. Breese, Mrs. Henry W. Bull, Mrs. Arthur Scott Burden, Mrs. W. Bourke Cockran, Mrs. Howard G. Cushing, Miss Edith Deacon, Mrs. Newbold LeRoy Edgar, Mrs. Leonard M. Thomas and Miss Mary Hoyt Wiborg.

With President and Mrs. Woodrow Wilson heading an imposing list of patrons and patronesses, "Fortune's Fete," the annual ball for the benefit of the New York Association for the Blind, will be given at the Hotel Astor on next Tuesday evening. The affair, which promises to be a brilliant one, will open with a programme of special dances, in which Miss Lydia Lopokova and M. Alexandre Gavrillov, of the Serge de Diaghileff Ballet; Miss Nna Kissel and a group of young women prominent in society will appear. General dancing will follow, with many of the dancers in costumes suggestive of Fortune or Chance.

The association, which carries on an excellent work in the interests of the blind, through its headquarters, the Lighthouse, at 111 East Fifty-ninth Street, has enlisted the aid of many prominent men and women to make the coming benefit a success. Mrs. Lawrence L. Gillespie, Mrs. Bradley Martin, Mrs. Lorillard Spencer, Mrs. Peter Cooper Hewitt and Miss Winifred Holt, secretary of the association, make up the committee on invitation, and Mrs. E. Roscoe Mathews, Mrs. Gardner W. Millett, Mrs. Lyle Evans Mahan, Louis Treadwell and Henry Morgan Post, treasurer of the fete, are members of the committee on arrangements. These committees, under the general direction of Joseph H. Choate, president of the association, with the assistance of a number of sub-committees, have planned for the special details of the ball.

In addition to Miss Lydia Lopokova and her partner, M. Gavrillov, a group of dances will illustrate the vagaries of the pursuit of Fortune. "The Wheel of Chance," originated and directed by Mrs. Bertha Ware Gady, with music composed for the occasion by James M. Beck, Jr., will open the programme. In it will appear Mrs. Lyle Evans Mahan, Mrs. C. W. Vaughan, Mrs. Frith, the Baroness de Ropp, Miss Frances Ward, Miss Dorothy James, Miss Abby P. Morrison, Miss Frances Henry, Miss Katherine Satterlee, Miss Claire Van Lennep, Miss E. Ingersoll Brown, Miss Florence Rising, Miss Genevieve Glendenin, Miss Mercer French, Miss Elsie Rice, Miss Madeline Dahlgren, Miss Louise Gilder, Miss Katherine Colby, Miss Adelaide Sedgwick, Miss Ina Kissel, in a gypsy solo dance, will be another of the attractions.

As added features there will be a number of devices in keeping with the character of the fete. These will include "The Book of Fate," based upon that book which Napoleon is said to have consulted as a guide in his actions. A sub-committee, headed by Mrs. E. Roscoe Mathews, and consisting of Mrs. Harold Barclay, Mrs. Willis Hanna, Miss Elsie Nicoll, Mrs. George Maxwell, Miss Edythe Whiting and Mrs. Allen G. Wellman, has this in charge. Boxes and tickets may be had by applying to Mrs. M. R. Sherwood or Henry Morgan Post, treasurer of the fete, at 111 East Fifty-ninth Street.

Ernest Thompson Seton, chief of the Woodcraft League; a group of Woodcraft boys and girls and a number of prominent young persons will give a craft evening at the Colony Club on April 25, through the courtesy of Mrs. A. Barton Hepburn and Miss Caroline Runtz-Rees. The entertainment is given for the purpose of demonstrating the work being done by the Woodcraft movement. Among those who will take part in the programme are Miss Mabel Powers, who will interpret some of the real American fairy stories; Chief Black Wolf (Ernest Thompson Seton), who will talk on "Woodcraft in Town and Country"; the Greenhill Tribe of the West Side Y.
